

GLOBAL ETP FLOWS

February 2024

Back in stock: $109.5B was added to global ETPs in February, marginally up from the $107.9B added in January, with the pickup largely coming from increased equity buying.

EM equity sets a record: equity flows rose from $70.7B to $85.6B, with an increase in buying across developed market (DM) and emerging market (EM) exposures, including a new record for the latter. Fixed income (FI) flows dropped from $38.4B to $21.4B and commodity selling continued, with a further $3.7B out.

Quality in control: a quality bias continued to come through in precision equity flows: tech led sector flows, with $8.1B added, and quality led factor flows ($4.1B).

Rotating into rates

Rates ETPs had their largest inflow month since October, with $9.3B added in February, spread across listing regions but largely due to US-listed flows. Among EMEA-listed rates ETPs, short-duration buying dropped to the lowest level in four months ($0.7B), while blended maturity flows picked up to $0.8B. In contrast, inflows into US-listed rates showed demand for intermediate-term ($4.0B) and long-term ($2.7B) exposures, in particular.

After three months of consistent inflows, culminating in the bumper $14.6B into investment grade (IG) in January (partly due to tactical trading into ETFs vs. direct bonds), credit flows waned in February, with $3.3B into IG and $0.4B out of high yield (HY). Overall, EMEA-listed IG ETPs marked their first outflow month in four (-$0.3B) and EMEA-listed HY ETPs gathered $0.5B (the fifth consecutive month of inflows); US-listed flows were a mirror image, with $1.5B into IG and $0.9B out of HY.

International investors go shopping

The pickup in equity flows came across exposures, with US equity flows rising to $39.7B, EM flows at $28.2B (surpassing the previous record set in January), and European equity flows notching their second inflow month in three, with $1.9B added. The pickup in European equity was driven by buying in both US and EMEA-listed ETPs, with the $0.9B of inflows into US-listed European equity representing the strongest month since February 2023 – when robust European equity sentiment was a key theme among investors.

A quality core

Tech led sector flows again in February, with a further $8.1B added, following on from the $9.0B of inflows in January. February's flows were boosted by $4.3B in the last week of the month alone, amid strong sentiment towards the sector, partly due to broadly positive Q4 earnings reports.

A quality bias also came through in factor flows, with $4.1B added over the course of the month, cementing quality as the most popular factor YTD (as was the case in 2023). Momentum has also come into focus, with $1.4B added in February – its largest inflow month since October 2022, given its sectoral makeup (with a tilt towards tech in the US and financials in Europe). Value has also notched up a ninth consecutive month of inflows, with a further $0.6B added in February – contrasting with appetite for cyclical sectors, of which only industrials gathered meaningful inflows ($0.7B).

Risk warnings

Capital at risk. The value of investments and the income from them can fall as well as rise and are not guaranteed. Investors may not get back the amount originally invested.

Past performance is not a reliable indicator of current or future results and should not be the sole factor of consideration when selecting a product or strategy.

Changes in the rates of exchange between currencies may cause the value of investments to diminish or increase. Fluctuation may be particularly marked in the case of a higher volatility fund and the value of an investment may fall suddenly and substantially. Levels and basis of taxation may change from time to time.
